

John Bonick

ARTIST STATEMENT

In quantum reality, elementary particles don't have pure states, only the probability of being in various states. Quantum uncertainty gives rise to entanglement, and I believe that nature is inherently uncertain.

My paintings incorporate uncertainty and seemingly independent probabilities that become entangled. Any one element of a painting becomes entangled with every other element and every other choice. That is what this series feels like to me.